KAREN BAHRENBURG

Karen earned a Bachelor of Science Degree from Fairleigh Dickenson University and worked as a technical writer for McGraw Hill Publishing Company before marrying and moving to upstate New York.

Drawing and painting were early passions, which were gradually revisited, and pursued.

She found formal training at the Woodstock School of Art and the Dutchess County Art Association where she studied figure drawing, oil painting and pastel. She discovered her favorite medium, by taking workshops from some of the most acclaimed pastelists in the world. Because of her love and reverence for nature, Karen most enjoys painting rural landscapes near her home, and where her travels take her from the American Southwest, to Florida and Italy.
